A Hint To Jim Allen.

"Such undue freedom, sir," I said, "I cannot understand." But he looked deep into my eyes And—simply kept my hand.

"Merely a friend you are," I said, "And liberties like this I never will permit." But he—He only took the kiss.

"My lover? Nonsense, sir!" I said; "I never can love you." But he took me in his arms, And said: "You do—you do!"

"I cannot marry you," I said, "And live with you for life." He said: "You will—you will!" And now I am his wife.

A Gentle Disposition.

The editor of the Carlisle Democrat must have a disposition both childlike and bland. He is a candidate for the office of County Judge of Nicholas County, and the editor of one of the other papers having published something he didn't like, he used the following Sunday-school language to express his feelings:

"We denounce its author—whenever he may be—as a liar, a poltroon, and a thieving coward, and unworthy the name of a Kentuckian."

A few outbursts of billingsgate like the above from the Judicial bench (if the editor is successful in his race) will go a great ways towards raising the standard of the law.

EXPENSIVE FUN.—D. T. Bowles, a gentleman from the rural regions, came to town Saturday and filled up with fighting whiskey. When he considered his "jag" to be of sufficient enough to enable him to clean out the town, he commenced operations. His first move was to fire off his revolver accompanied by a series of war whoops, which would have done credit to any member of the degree team of the Improved Order of Red Men. Gaining courage from the screams of a lot of women and children, he drew a pair of brass knuckles. Here is where his troubles began. Officer Morgan heard the shot and war whoops, and bore down on him. Before the echoes had died away, Mr. Bowles was deep in the bowels of the county jail, and when he showed up in the Police Court yesterday, he was in a penitent mood and pleaded guilty to every charge brought against him. Judge Webb assessed a fine of $27.50 and committed him to the county jail at hard labor for ten days.

Louisville Spring Races.

Not since Aristides won the Kentucky Derby, back in '75, has a greater interest been manifested in the outcome of this classic event than is now being taken in the result of the Twenty-seventh Derby to be decided on the afternoon of Monday, April 29th, at Churchill Downs. With a promised field of nearly a dozen colts, the cream of the Western turf, it will auspiciously mark the opening of the twelve days' racing, with a stake each day, in which the very best horses will participate.

There will be five or more races each day, including a stake, and there will be liberal additions to the purses.

The railroads have put on special rates, and the fare from here will be one fare on Derby Day, April 29th. Clark Day, May 6th, and the Oaks, May 11th; and other days a fare and a third.

The Derby will be run the opening day, April 29th, followed by the Debutante Stakes, the Turf Congress Handicap, Bluegrass Stakes, Clark Stakes, Wrentham Stakes, Frank Fehr Stakes, Juvenile, and the Kentucky Oaks, in the order named. These constitute the biggest takes of the Western turf, and on Friday, May 10th, the Gentlemen's Oap race, which has become such a feature, will be decided.

A Hospital For Paris.

The article in the last issue of the News advocating a hospital for Paris, has started a lot of very favorable comment on the subject. The News has interviewed at least a hundred persons, and without a single exception, all were in favor of the movement and expressed an intention to subscribe. There is hardly a week passes that someone from Paris is not taken to one of the hospitals in Lexington, Louisville or Cincinnati. This not only is the means of taking a great deal of money out of Paris, but is a source of a great deal of pain and inconvenience to both the patient and friends, on account of removing them to such a distance. The L. & N. R. R. has a ward in each of the Lexington hospitals, and as this is a central distributing point of the road, and a very large per cent. of their employees are here, they would undoubtedly subscribe liberally to a hospital here. The News earnestly hopes this matter will be taken up and discussed. It invites the other papers of Paris to assist it in getting the people interested, believing it will be to the mutual interest of all to secure such an institution here. We have received the following communication from one of our physicians, which expresses the sentiment of them all:

EDITOR NEWS.—The last issue of the Bourbon News contained an article booming the prospects for a public hospital, a cause that is badly in need of the earnest and careful attention of both the county and city. An institution of this kind is in very nearly every city of the size of Paris, and especially in those which have such an able and wealthy community as we have to draw from. There is hardly a week that passes but that some one is sent from our midst to either Lexington, Louisville or Cincinnati, to receive either medical or surgical attention, when this could all be left at home, where the medical profession ranks as high as it does anywhere. For the lack of a suitable place it does not have the opportunity to stretch forth and show the ability that some may think should be sought for elsewhere. An institution of the kind would surely be self-sustaining after a while. The Patrie E. Clay Infirmary at Richmond is said to be self-sustaining. Of course the city and county make yearly endowments, as Lexington does her hospitals. The L. & N. Railroad keeps a ward in each Lexington and Covington hospital. Why would it not keep one in Paris as well? There is not a citizen in the county that would not subscribe something for such a cause, and many have expressed themselves willing to give a considerable amount should the movement on foot.

The salaries of the city physicians could also be allowed, and the attending staff could easily look after the poor and needy. The local doctors would all give benefit for the cause as well. Let the editor of the News start a subscription list and see with what success it meets, and I predict in a short time we will have an institution we will all be proud of. We are to have a public library. Now let us lessen suffering humanity by a place where the patient can have proper treatment, and last but not least, the proper administration of the medicine prescribed. AN M. D.

At the Opera House this evening Miss Caroline Lewis Gordon will give a recital of negro folk song and oriental sketches from plantation life. Miss Gordon is the daughter of the famous Confederate General, and the entertainment is given under the auspices of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Thos. Nelson Page says Miss Gordon is one of the most charming readers he ever heard.

It will be pleasing news to the many friends of the young lady to learn that Miss Anna Lee Washington, the sweet singer, has kindly consented to render a couple of selections. The pieces which she will render are, "Ever of Thee," "I'm Fondly Dreaming," by Foley Hall, and "Where Are The Friends Of My Youth," by George Barker.

THERE will be a business meeting of the Daughters of the Confederacy at Mrs. T. E. Ashbrook's Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, for the election of officers.

THE personal property of Mrs. S. J. Short will be sold publicly at her residence on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

THE third article on pearls by Mr. Myer, is to be found in this issue. Much additional interest is manifested and the results are beginning to accrue. We predict many finds in the near future. In the words of Mr. Myer "Perseverance wins." He has shown this by his own work. For sixteen years he has persevered in spreading the good news over the country and his perseverance has won a small fortune for many a poor laboring man whom he has induced to try the pearl. To succeed, follow the advice of a man who is success, and stick to the work on the bed of shells nearest to your home.

When you are getting nice pearls, and nice sums of money for them, do not forget that this paper first called your attention to this way of getting wealth.

Ripley Not Guilty.

Notwithstanding the wild prediction of the assassination press that the jury of "twelve Goebel Democrats" would hang Capt. Ripley, who was charged with complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel, they brought in a verdict of not guilty. It would seem to the most prejudiced and partisan mind that this would effectively prove to the governor of Indiana that Taylor could secure a fair trial, and would cause him to honor a requisition for the fugitive. But here comes the Lexington Leader with the assertion that this trial was only a sham, arranged before hand to influence the Governor of Indiana to give up the fugitives. It may be that in the near future the evidence on the one side will be so strong, and the excuses on the other so weak that the Governor will get tired of sheltering the alleged assassins, and will turn them over to the Kentucky authorities. No one but those who do not wish to see that end accomplished will deny now that they will get justice.

Spring is Here!!!

He was such a sweet young thing with such a confiding smile, that when he tripped into the office and asked us to publish a little spring poetry we refrained from killing him. Just how great the provocation was may be judged from the following:

Spring is here—the Eastern maiden
Decks her hair with airy lace,
Roses, gauze, and sweetly tips it
O'er her dainty face.

Spring is here—the sunshine shows it,
Spring has come again;
Every little songster knows it—
Sings the glad refrain.

Educational Possibilities.

The educational possibilities of the brute creation has probably been reached by Prof. Gentry, who is known all over the land as a wonderful trainer of animals. His latest effort, however, is said to be decidedly his best "one. In educating the troupe of baby elephants, which form an important part in the performance this season, he has entirely eclipsed all former efforts in this line.

They perform some wonderful feats never before attempted by these clumsy animals.

Will exhibit in Paris on lot near L. & N. depot on Friday, April 26th, afternoon and night.
